Bill and Ellie (They Built Their Home With Love)

It was 1961, when Bill and Ellie were married
A blizzard raged all that day so into the church El was carried Hard working and an honest guy, Bill was handsome as can be Red headed with a heart of gold, El's beauty all could see
They pledge their love for each other
And to build their home with love

Nine months later Billy Jr. was born and in a year came Linda too
Jim would follow, then Ken and Kris, they loved them all through and through
So Bill and Ellie sacrificed each day to see that their children were happy
Teaching them through their words and deeds so that love they'd all come to see
They gave their love to each other
And taught their kids to love

And forgive, to help, how to live
To do all your best, to talk, pass a test
Respect everyone, to work and have some fun
To give and to pray, to cherish every day
Yes, they were building their home with love

And now its been some fifty years, yes their love's what kept them together
Faithful to the love they pledged through fair and stormy weather
Their children grew and started families too and taught them to love one another
Sharing all that they had learned from their dear father and mother

Bill and Ellie love one another
They built their home with love
